R. R. SHOPMEN HAVE VOTED TO STRIKE

Will Defer Walkout Till R. R. Labor Board Gives Decision

AID PROMISED MEN

Jewell Expresses Fear Other Rail Workers Would Not Back Wage Fight.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Railraod shopmen belonging to teh six federated shop crafts unions have voted to strike against the general railraod wage reduction of July 1, 1921, but will deter any action until the pomulgation of working rules now pending before the United States Railroad Labor Board, when another vote will be taken on acceptance or rejection of the rules.

This announcement was officially made by R. M. Jewell, head of the Shop Crafts organizations, at a mass meeting of Chicago shopworkers today.

Belief that a stronger fight could be made if a strike is called, with preservation of the shopmen's working rules as one of the goals, led to the decision to withhold a strike call for the present, Mr. Jewell said. He and other union speakers counseled the men to wait until the entire wage and rules situation was before them, rather than rush into a strike which Mr. Jewell declared the railroad managements desired.

"We can make a real fight on the rules proposition when we might not have the full support of other branches of railway employes on a wage fight alone," Mr. Jewell said. "If we want to protect our best interests, we must wait until the time is opportune. But if the Labor Board releases all the remaining rules to be acted upon at one time, then we will have the whole matter before us We will need only one vote—to accept or reject the rules—to determine what will be done."

This announcement was greeted with applause and questioners jumped up in all parts of the hall to press for further details. Answering one question, Mr. Jewell asserted that teh shop crafts would have the cooperation of other organizations, including the big four brotherhoods if a strike were called and urged his audience to prepare for action.

The strike vote, completed August 1, was announced as showing a constitutional majority against the wage reduction which went into effect July 1. This was the first official confirmation of the result which has been rumored for some time.

"When the board announces the substitute rules, our committee will take a ballot," Mr. Jewell said. "If the rules are not satisfactory and the ballot says so, we will take the result to the railroads. If they defuse to grant our reasonable demands, they will have to stand responsible and answer to the American people."

COAST GUARD SHIP TO CHASE RUM RUNNERS

Speeder Cutter Apache Being Outfitted to Patrol Chesapeake Bay

READY OCTOBER 1st.

Will Work in Connection With Custom Service—Boats Will be Seized Wherever Found.

Baltimore, Sept. 19.—The Coast Guard cutter Apache is being put in commission by the Coast Guard service primarily for the purpose of ridding the Chesapeake Bay of bootlegging craft, Commander J. A. Starr said yesterday. Commander Starr is at the Arundel Cove station superintending the outfitting of the boat.

The Apache will be in commission about October 1, and will be commanded by Capt. H. D. Hinkle, Commander Starr will be the ship's executive officer. The boat will patrol the entire bay.

"I understand there is considerable bootlegging going on in the bay," Commander Starr said yesterday, "and the Apache's principle job will be chasing the offenders. Of course, she will take care of her own work as well.

"The boat is rather speedy, making about thirteen knots. And she draws only seven and a half feet of water, making it possible for her to get up into shallow water when a boat she is pursuing tries to escape in this manner."

Commander Starr said the Apache is not in bad condition. All she needs is a crew and painting and overhauling.

The cutter will work In connection with the customs service, which has no boats speedy enough to cope with the bootlegging vessels in the bay. Any boats seized by the Apache, Commander Starr said, will be brought to Baltimore and turned over to the customs officials here, unless the seizure is made in the vicinity of Norfolk.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

(From Our Special Correspondent.)

Washington, Sept. 19.—The attention of the Department of Commerce has just been called to a survey conducted by one of the largest manufacturers of automobile in the country which discloses the amazing fact that there is one automobile for every 12 persons in the United States. That is taking the nation as a whole. In some states like California and New York there is an auto for every 7 persons in these commonwealths.

The total output of all the automobile plants in the United States during the past year meant a surplus of one million cars, for which there is no American market and which must either be disposed of in this country at a great loss to the producers or else be sent to foreign markets for disposal. This over production in cars, Department of Commerce experts figure, will result in bringing down the prices of the high powered machines.

Industrial Conference

The greatest interest is being manifested at the present time over th forthcoming industrial conference scheduled to take place in Washington within the next few days. There is no disguising the fact that the relations between capital and labor are very much strained and that unless some method is provided for uniting the contending factions a separatoin of the two contending forces in the industrial world is apparent. It is for the purpose of getting the employer and employee together and to bring about a clearer understanding between them that President Harding called this conference. Anything that will tend to relieve the present unrest in the industrial world today will be an achievement of which any party will be proud. There will be no objection coming from the Democrats of the country if President Harding by the calling of this industrial conference settles a very perplexed problem before the winter ensues.

Appropriating Bill

General Charles G. Dawes director of the budget, has laid before President Harding the estimates of appropriations that will be required for running the various executive departments of the government for the next fiscal year. These estimates, up to date, have not been made public, but it is learned that some of the heads of the various government bureaus will be astounded when they ascertain just how they have been treated in the way of appropriations by General Dawes. He has used the pairing knife with great effect and success so far as government appropriations are concerned and it will be up to him to prove to the country that he was the man best fitted to handle such an enormous problem.

Congress Meets Wednesday

Washington promises to be a real live town again this week. President Harding has returned after his vacation on the Mayflower, by auto and otherwise is ready for business again Congress will reassemble on Wednesday after its recess prepared to take up the problems of legislation dropped when Senators and Representatives determined that they would have a vacation. But there is especial interest displayed at the National Capital just at this time over the forthcoming meeting of the conference on the limitation of armaments and Far Eastern questions which will begin on Armistice Day, November 11. The total proprietors of Washington are now booking rooms and floors for visiting delegations and most of the nations invited to the arms parley have already made arrangements for their stay at the National Capital. It is predicted in State Department circles that the arma conference will drag along well into the New Year and that the actual results will not be known before February.

FREE REIN GIVEN GIRLS IN DRESS BY HEAD OF SCHOOLS

York, Pa., Sept. 19.—Superintendent of Schools, Atreus Wanner has amed a vigorous reply to certain York persons who have been criticising the manner in which girl pupils in the York High School dress.

"There will be no dress censorship in the York schools while I am superintendent," he says. "The girls have my permission to wear skirts as short as they want and can even roll down their stockings. What the pupils wear is a matter for the parents to decide."

STANDS FIRM THAT IRISH DROP CLAIM

Premier Telegraphs De Valera Parley Impossible Under Terms

HOLDS TO FIRST BID

Leaves Room For Sinn Fein to Modify Present Attitude—Claims Sovereignty.

London, Sept. 19.—Premier Lloyd George today added another to the brisk fire of telegraphs between Dublin and Gairloch, which leaves Eamonn de Valera's search for a formula enabling him to accept the invitation to a conference still unsatisfied, and the position on the Irish question is virtually the same as on Friday.

In his message to the Irish Republican leader, the British Prime Minister remains firm in refusing to meet the Irish delegates as representing an independent and sovereign state, and declared that unless that section of Mr. de Valera's recent letter insisting upon the delegates acting as representatives of an independent Ireland were withdrawn, a conference between the members of the British Cabinet and the Sinn Fein plenipotentiaries would be impossible.

Notwithstanding the firm tone of Mr. Lloyd George's telegram, it is interpreted as displaying solicitude to turnish Mr. de Valera a favorable opening for abandoning his present attitude.

"I have received your telegram of last night and observe it does not modify the claim that your delegates should meet us as representatives of a sovereign and independent state.

"You made no such condition in advance when you came to see in July I invited you then to meet me, in the words of my letter, as the chosen leader of the great majority in Southern Ireland, and you accepted the invitation.

"From the very outset of our conversations I told you that we looked to Ireland to own allegiance to the throne, and to make her future as a member of the British commonwealth That was the basis of our proposals, and we cannot alter it.

"The status you now claim in advance for your delegates is in effect to repudiation of that basis. I am prepared to meet your delegates, as I met you in July, in the capacity of the chosen spokesman for your people to discuss the association of Ireland with the British commonwealth.

"My colleagues and I cannot meet them as representatives of a sovereign and independent state without disloyalty on our part to the throne and the empire. I must therefore repeat that unless the second paragraph of your letter of the twelfth is withdrawn a conference between us is impossible."

The second paragraph of Mr. de Valera's letter of September 12, to which Premier Lloyd George alludes in his latest telegram, is as follows:

"In this final vote we deem it our duty to reaffirm that our position is and can only be as we have defined it throughout this correspondence. Our nation has formally declared its independence and recognizes itself as a sovereign state. It is only as representatives of that state and as its chosen guardians that we have authority or powers to act on behalf of our people. As regards the principle of government by consent of the governed, in the very nature of things it must be the basis of any agreement that will achieve the purpose we have at heart—that is, the final reconciliation of our nation with yours. We have suggested no interpretation of that principle, save its everyday interpretation, the sense, for example, in which it was understood by the plain men and women of the world, when on January 5, 1918, you said:

"The settlement of Europe must be based on such grounds of reason and justice as will give some promise of stability. Therefore, it is that we feel that government with the consent of the governed must be the basis of any territorial settlement in this war."

PROGRESSIVE PETERSBURG

The congregation of a Methodist Church in Petersburg, Va., is building a new house of worship. When it is ready for dedication, it is said that provision will be made for a pastor's salary of $10,000 per annum, in addition to which an assistant will be employed who will have the routine pastoral work in charge, thus leaving his chief free to devote himself to his sermons. We believe this is a step in the right direction, at least so far as the salary is concerned.

There are two professions in this country that have always been notoriously underpaid—the teaching and the preaching profession. This is due to several reasons, no doubt, and while at one time they might have had a valid excuse, the changes of time and custom have rendered most of them obsolete. For instance, in the old colonial days, when money was scarce, it was the practice of the parishioners to furnish the food, the cloth, the leather, and many items besides, needed by the pastor in his daily life. Again, the value of money in the old days was far greater than now, or for many years past. That is to say, that a dollar then would buy more flour, bacon, meat, eggs, cloth or leather than it will today, or for the past fifty years. As for the teachers, they were "boarded round" in the families during the school term, and in the vacation months left to shift to other employment as best they might.

Now, teachers and preachers are proverbially modest; a virtue that has not been its own reward in this instance, but just the contrary. In addition, the lack of business training militated likewise against their looking out for their own interests; and while all other salaries and wages and emoluments have been steadily advanced through the years, theirs have remained, if not stationary, still far behind those of other vocations.

So that, today, as stated, they are probably the least paid and the hardest-worked of those of any vocation known to modern civilization.

This Petersburg move seems to us, therefore, in the right direction. We shall watch it with interest, and hope it is merely the fore-runner of many other movements of like nature; and that the teaching profession will come in, also for its share of the general improvement.

AN EXEMPLARY LIFE

In the death of Emanuel Ethelbert Downham, Alexandria loses one of her patriarchs, whose long life of usefulness entitled him to the esteem and affection of all her citizens. His honors were many and extended through life from early manhood to old age. We publish elsewhere in our columns today a brief biography in which are enumerated the various posts of distinction to which he was chosen by his fellow-citizens. This city sustains a loss in Mr. Downham's death which will be felt through the years. His example, however, is one that has left a shining mark, and which will serve for the guidance of future generations to a remote period. The sympathy of the Gazette goes out to the sorrowing family; their consolation can only be derived from that Supreme Source to which all must look in the sad hours of bereavement.

American Legion Notes

The American flag will fly from the State capitol building in Richmond and from every public and school building in the State of Virginia daily, except during inclement weather, providing the American Legion is able to cary out the policy outlined in a resolution adopted at the third annual State conevention in Norfolk recently, Failing to obtain action by other means, the Legion plans to carry the matter this year to the General Asembly, which wil also be asked to pass laws to prohibit its defacement.

This was one of a series of important resolutions adopted at the convention, the greatest ever held in Virginia by the Legion, which had for their purposes the following:

Recall of George Harvey, ambassador to Great Britain, for his recent utterances, which are held to be unrepresentative of either the American people or government, and his replacement by someone who shall more fitly and honorably represent the United States.

Endorsement the four-fold adjustment compensation bill now pending in Congress.

Deploring the delay in the erection of the Memorial Library in Richmond and endorsing the principle of open competiiton in the prosecuting of all public works.

That boxing be legalized by the State legislature with the right to charge admissions for boxing exhibitions.

That Eugene V. Debs be made to compete his prison term and that no Federal pardon be granted him or any of his kind.

Dr. Junius F. Lynch, of Norfolk, was elected comander of the Virginia department at the closing session of the convention and Charlottesville was selected for next year's meeting.

Other department officers elected were:

Robert B. Adams, of Roanoke, vice-commander; Dr. B. M. Roszel, of Winchester, relected historian; Richard F. Beirne, of Covington, reelected sergeant-at-arms; Rev. William Byrd Lee, department chaplain; W. L. Price, of Richmond, deaprtment adjutant; Robert T. Good Housekeepers Have Few Fires

IT IS axiomatic that the home of the careful, conscientious housekeeper seldom is visited by fire since she never permits the accumulation of rubbish nor allows other obviously dangerous conditions to remain unattended to.

Every housewife should insist, in the interest of her family's safety, that the heating and cooking apparatus of the home should be made as free from danger as possible. She should see that the stove, if it is not of the built-in kind, stands at least eight inches from the wall and above the floor, and that the nearest wooden surfaces are protected with sheet metal or asbestos board. If metal alone is used, there should be an air space behind it. Smokepipes should have ventilated metal thimbles where they enter walls or partitions and should be at least eight inches from the celling or woodwork. Smokepipes containing accumulations of soot are likely to overheat and cause fire, and they should therefore be cleaned thoroughly at least once a year.

"Cold" Ashes That Were Not

The housewife should never permit towels or other inflammable materials to be hung close to the stove to dry.

A SAFETY MEASURE
Matches should always be kept out of the reach of small children.

Wet clothing, also, if placed too near a heater or open fire is likely to become ignited. Ashes should never be put into wooden receptacles. The coals are often very much alive when they are thought to be burnt out, and may smolder for hours and then burst into flame when no one is about. There was an instance where supposedly cold ashes placed in a wooden box on a back porch started a fire that destroyed almost the entire house.

Fires often occur in the kitchen from the ignition of grease or fat. Like oil fires, such blazes should be smothered with salt, sand or with a chemical extinguisher, since water only spreads them. A sauce-pan cover is also effective when the fire is small.

Another source of danger is the improperly constructed fireless cooker. The insulating filler should always be of some strictly non-inflammable substance and never of excelsior, paper, ground cork or other combustible material.

700,000,000 Matches a Day

"Children and matches" form a combination that is found with regrettable frequency among the list of fire causes. Practically all reports issued by the various state fire marshals contain this item. Matches of the "strike anywhere" variety are left lying carelessly about, instead of being kept in china or metal receptacles out of the reach of childish hands, and the result is that the little ones find them and adopt them as playthings, too often with serious consequences. There was a little boy in a Massachusetts town who was left alone by his mother while she attended to her marketing. When she returned she found him dead upon the kitchen floor, his clothing burned off his body. The evidence indicated clearly that he had been playing with matches. The only unusual feature of the occurrence was that the house itself did not catch fire.

There are something over 700,000,000 matches consumed in the United States every day, or about 486,000 a minute, and each one contains the possibility of a conflagration. That fact should always be borne in mind.

Matches, lamps, candles and other open flame lights are all exceedingly dangerous when used to illuminate a closet where there is easily-ignited clothing hanging about.

Careless Smokers

The smoking habit constitutes one of our chief fire causes, and every wife and mother should educate the tobacco burning members of the household to exercise care in disposing of their matches, cigar and cigarette ends. Pipe "heels" are likewise dangerous. A realization of the fact that matches and smoking together cause a loss of over $15,000,000 a year should stay the hand of the most careless.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT
One way in which the heedless smoker starts fires.

Spontaneous combustion is another hazard which the housewife should guard against. The frequency with which it causes fires is not generally appreciated. It develops about the home usually from the presence of oily cloths, certain "dustless" dusters and paint rags, although some of the sweeping compounds are also dangerous in this respect. Cloths saturated with vegetable oils such as linseed, cottonseed, soya bean and so on, are particularly subject to spontaneous ignition, and they should either be destroyed or kept in metal containers. Rubbish should never be allowed to pile up in the attic, cellar or elsewhere, as it is always dangerous, and when it contains oily material it holds the additional hazard of spontaneous combustion. Even ordinary accumulations of old furniture, clothes, papers and similar materials offer an inviting opportunity for the chance spark.

TRADE CURRENTS ON OCEANS RETURNING TO PRE-WAR CONDITIONS

Trade conditions on the oceans of the world are apparently returning to pre-war conditions. During the war, says the Trade Record issued by The National City Bank of New York, the dangers to navigation on the Atlantic resulting in a considerable increase of movement to certain clases of merchantdise across the more peaceful Pacific, and the share of our imports entering by the Pacific ports greatly increased, while that entering by the Atlantic frontage decreased.

In the year before the war, says the bank's statement, 55 per cent of the merchandise imported into the United States entered through the port of New York, and 72 per cent of the imports entered through the Atlantic ports as a whole. In the fiscal year 1918 with the dangers to navigation on the Atlantic the share of the imports entering through New York had fallen to 42 per cent as against 55 per cent in 1914, and that entering through all the entire Atlantic frontage was but 58 per cent as against 72 per cent in 1914. Meantime, the share of the import trade crosing the more peaceful Pacific and entering by way of the Pacific ports had increased from 7 per cent in 1914 to 21 per cent in 1918, while on the northern border the growth in our purchases of Canadian products resulted in an increase from 10 per cent in 1914 to 16 per cent in 1921 in the imports handled by the northern border ports.

The Dreadnaughts proved to be Snead's master yesterday in the game he pitched for his home team (Charlottesville, Va.) The score was 8 to 3. The game was scored up in the third inning when Behrle the D's new third baseman, tripled with the bases loaded. This put the game on ice, and the D's were never in danger from thereon. It was the fastest game of ball played this season as it took but one hour and twenty-seven minutes actual playing time which is undoubtedly the fastest amateur game ever played in this section Next Sunday at 3 o'clock the D's have booked the Wonder Team the Shamrocks for a return engagement with Beall their strikeout king. Don't fail to see this game as the last time these two hung up it was the greatest sandlot game ever played in this section and this one should prove to be just as good.

INGOMAR THEATRE

As a highly spirited orphan who is to inherit money but has been so kept down by the strict maiden aunt who brings her up that she "busts loose" the very day she is eighteen and gets herself into hectic adventures, Bebe Daniels has another role well suited to her talents, in "One Wild Week," which opens today at the Ingomar Theater.

RICMOND THEATER

"The Child Thou Gavest Me," which is to be the attraction under the First National tradesmark at the Richmond Theatre for two days, starting today introduces a new production organization to the motion picture public. It is an independent unit known as John M. Stahl Productions, and the pictures, made under Mr. Stahl's personal direction, will be presented by Louis B. Mayer

The initial offering of this company, according to advance reports, is one of the most dramatic stories ever filmed. The story evolved about a startingly novel situation—one that has never been done before in film—and the suspense and tenseness throughout makes this one of the outstanding achievements in movie history.

The cast is of all star calibre, including such celebrities as Lewis Stone, Barbara Castleton, William Desmond, Adele Farrington, Winter Hall and last, but not least, little Richard Headrick, alias "Itchie," who has won his way into millions of hearts by his acting in previous pictures.

Simple Stone Cabin Marks Entrance To Subterranean Fairyland; Endless Caverns Beneath Shenandoah Valley

Four miles from New Market, Virginia, in the historic Shenandoah Valley, stands an unpretentious cabin fashioned of the native limestone rock with moss and lichens clinging to it.

The cabin forms the entrance to one of the most amazing series of underground caverns ever discovered. The cave is known as the Endless Caverns and exhibits a bewildering variety of geologic formations, beautiful, fantastic and bizarre.

More than thirty rooms and corridors have been opened and the limits of these underground catacombs remain undetermined.

Recently the caves were thrown open to the public and they are now illuminated for tourists with a cleverly devised system of concealed electric lights.

Skyland, which is pictured above, in the opinion of many visitors, is the crowning feature of the caverns. The background of the pendant stalactites and the columnar stalagmites in this section of the cave contains the elusive tints of the sunset sky, painted on stone by Nature's own artists, working through untold ages in impenetrable darkness, with water for a brush and mineral salts for pigments. The result of their efforts, and those of the sculptors who carved the natural frame for their heroic canvas, stands revealed in the soft glow of the flood lights playing upon them from concealed sources.

The whole cave seems to be almost in the realm of enchantment. It is easy to believe that it might have been the abode of elves and gnomes, a magic palace called into being by the waving of a wand or the rubbing of a lamp. And in descending the flight of stone steps carved from the solid rock inside the little cabin the visitor feels that he has left reality behind him and been dropped unceremoniously into some Arabian Nights tale.

NEWS FROM THE LAKES

Geneva, Sept. 7, 1813.

Gen Wilkinson is of opinion that the contest for the Lake will be decided this week. The British fleet on Friday last captured the Sch. Mary, laden with 10,000 feet Pine Plank, and 175 Bbls. Flour, public property, bound from the mouth of the Genesee River to Niagara.

Gen. Boyd and Major Chapin have had a falling out. Major Chapin has discharged the Indians who were under him.

The agreement with Indians allows them five dollars for each private taken, thirty dollars for a captain, and so in proportion to the rank, together with the arms and accoutrements.

A poor fellow of this county had obtained some articles of private property. Information was lodged against him, and he was ordered to have his ears cut off and be drummed out of the army, which sentence has been fully executed.

The Indians are not allowed any sums for British scalps nor are they permitted to scalp any white persons, but they take the liberty to scalp British Indians.

Duty On Dyes

The following communication was recently transmitted by the United States Tariff Commision to the President, in regard to the production of dyes and other coal-tar chemicals in the United States:

The President:

Title V of the Act of September 8, 1916, entitled "An act to increase revenue and for other purposes," imposing duties on dyes and other chemical coal-tar products, contains the following provision in section 501:

"During the period of five years beginning five years after the passage of this act such duties shall be annually reduced by 20 per centum of the rate imposed by this section, so that at the end of such period such special duties shall no longer be assessed, levied, or collected; but if, at the expiration of five years from the date of the passage of this act, the President finds that there is not being manufactured or produced within the United States as much as 60 per centum in value of the domestic consumption of the articles mentioned in groups two and three of section 500, he shall by proclamation so declare, whereupon the special duties imposed by this section on such articles shall no longer assesed, levied, or collected."

On October 27, 1917, the President requested the Tariff Commission to ascertain the facts on which to base executive action under this provision of the law. The Tariff Commission has therefore made a careful study of the American industry by taking a census of the production of dyes and other coal-tar products each year from 1917 to 1920, inclusive, together with a detailed analysis of imports during 1919 and 1920. A report is inclosed which shows the status of the domestic industry for the calendar year of 1920.

The production of the articles provided for in group two (coal-tar intermediates) of the act referred to above, in the United States during the calendar year 1920, amounted to $95,291,686, whereas during the same period the imports of these articles had a value of only $751,448, of less than 1 per cent of the value of the American production. The production in the United States during 1920 of the articles provided for in group two(dyes and other finished coal-tar chemicals) amounted to $112,165,865 in value, whereas the imports of these articles during the same period amounted to $5,804,905, a little more than 5 per cent of the American production. Futhermore, during 1920 exports of aniline dyes amounted to $22,450,480 and exports of "all other dyes" consisting in part of synthetic dyes of coal-tar origin amounted to $7,373,111. It is, therefore, clear that during 1920 the domestic production of the articles enumerated in groups two and three was much in excess of 60 per cent of the domestic consumption. Although complete statistical evidence as to production is not available for any later period than the calendar year 1920, it is apparent that the importation of these products has not increased during 1921 to such an extent that at the present time less than 60 per cent in value of the domestic consumption is supplied by domestic production. The facts, therefore, do not call for the issuance of a proclamation removing the specific duties under section 501 of said act.

Respectfully,
(Signed) THOMAS WALKER PAGE.

Feel how smooth this paint is

No wonder Certain-teed paint is so smooth—it is made of the finest grade materials ground exceedingly fine and mixed thoroughly and evenly by machines which make no mistakes. And how it does spread! No ordinary paint equals it. The brush glides over the surface, leaving a velvety coating of paint that completely hides the surface and keeps it hidden.

You'd expect such high grade paint as Certain-teed to cost more, but it actually costs less. The Certain-teed people certainly know how to make paint, and they know how to price it. Each color stands on its own price, based on cost. You pay less for those colors which cost less to make. That's fair. Everybody pays only for what he gets and nothing more. We have the right Certain-teed Paint or Varnish for everything inside or outside your house. Come in and see us before you buy any paint.

Unearth Palace of Wonders In Virginia's Endless Caverns

This stone image of a giant California Redwood stump, the upper surface as regular as if it had been freshsawn, the corrugations of the bark perfectly reproduced and the size and proportions as correct as if carefully designed by a competent sculptor, is only one of the multitude of wonders to be encountered in the Endless Caverns near New Market, Virginia, recently opened to the public.

The caverns are of natural limestone formation. The tree stump is not a petrifaction but the remains of a broken stalagmite. Recently a cleverly concealed system of electric lighting has been installed in the caverns revealing their bizarre beauties of color and form.

"Imagine the collaboration of a Troglodyte architect, a demoniacal futurist, and a drunken scene painter, assisted by a retinue of workers and apprentices, consisting of elves, gnomes, pygmies and not a few water demons," says A. Holt Armitage in his effort to describe the caverns. "Such a group might have produced these caves, the effect is astonishing. The Troglodyte architect seems to have introduced every kind of motif in the rock formations and the elaborate colonnades of stalactites and stalagmites. The demoniacal futurist has used every shade of color. As for the drunken scene painter, he has left hectic splashes of color from his intoxicated brush in all manner of curious places."

The Endless Caverns lie only about four miles from New Market, just off the Valley Pike, which is a part of the National Highway. They are easily accessible to automobilists, an excellent road having just been completed leading directly to the entrance.

MAYO FOUNDATION DIRECTOR FAVORS RETAINING MEDICAL SCHOOL AT UNIVERSITY

Charlottesville, Va., Sept. 21.—Dr. Louis B. Wilson, director of the Mayo Foundation for medical education and research, professor of pathology in the University of Minnesota and a recognized authority on matters of medical education has refused to give his unqualified endorsement to the majority report of the Medical Commission of Virginia, but favors the retention of the medical school at the University of Virginia. Dr. Wilson suggests the establishment in Richmond of a great graduate school which would draw its students from medical schools throughout the country. He believes the plan if followed would within ten years put Virginia at the head of the other states in medical education. His views were expressed in some detail in a recent letter to Dean Theodore Hough, of the medical department of the University.

Dr. Wilson's letter stated that he had expressed the same views to Dr. Stuart McGuire, of Richmond, who had requested his opinion on the majority report of the medical commission. Dr. Wilson stated that after reading the majority report he could not give his endorsement to removing the medical department from the University of Virginia.

The head of the Mayo Foundation paid a high tribute to the medical graduates of the University stating that "the Mayo Clinic had never received a mediocre graduate student from the institution. Dr. Wilson is another expert in medical education who recognizes the value of university associations in professional studies and he laid much stress on this phase of the University of Virginia men who came under his observation.

"Every man we have received from the University of Virginia seems to me to have greatly benefited by his University associations, in other words to have thoroughly caught the University spirit—a spirit of thoroughness in fundamentals, of truth from the truth's sake, and indeed of real culture in things outside of as well as within medicine."

Do It Now!

So many coal consumers have delayed putting in their Winter coal this season that there will be an urgent demand when the weather gets cold which will make it impossible for the mines to produce, the railroads to haul or the dealer to handle all orders as satisfactorily as the trade will want.

It is our advice to all consumers to enter their order now and have their coal put in as promptly as possible.

"Purina" Made the Difference!

EQUAL in laying ability. But the hen on the right was fed a common grain ration while the other was fed Purina Chicken Chowder and Purina Hen Chow. Grains have lots of material for yolks, but far too little for whites. As they can't lay yolks only, grain-fed hens lay fewer eggs.

Purina Poultry Chows form a complete ration, containing material for an equal number of whites and yolks. They get the most out of your hens, and cut the feeding cost per dozen eggs.

Feed from Checkerboard Bags

More-Eggs Guarantee

You get your money back if Purina Chicken Chowder and Purina Hen Chow, fed as directed, don't produce more eggs than any other ration. Why should you put off a trial when we take the risk?
